PAUL R. SHIPMAN, | Editore:

SATURDAY, JULY 9, 1864. All the reports of a large rebel force preparing to enter Maryland or Pennsylvauja seem to have been dictated by alarm, for at and I den't care whether the bolt that rends it last accounts the desultory bands of raiders were leavi g in hot haste. The object was to plander, for they certainly must have known that Gen. Grant would not be compelled to move a man from before Richmond or Petersburg. There are forces eaough along the line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad under Hunter and Kelly, in Maryland nader Wallace, ond in Pennsylvania under Conch, to deal with all the rebels who can be brought down the Valley of the Shenandorh. We publish on our first page to-day fall detalls of the naval engagement in the British Channel, between the United States vessel Kearsarge and the Anglo rebel pirate Alabama. It will be observed that Malakoff, the Paris correspondent of the New York Times, corrects the false statement of the English press that Semmes went out boldly and challenged Capt. Winslow. The Alabama was ordered to leave Cherbonrg by the French Maritime Prefect. Semmes had just teturned from his ralding craise in the Indi an Ocean, and entered the French port to coal and make repairs. Upon her arrival, Minister Dayton telegraphed to Capt. Winslow, of the Kearsarge, who was in a port of Holland, watching tebel privateer movements, and communicated the fact. Capt. W. started promptly for Cherbonrg, and in a short time the Alabama went cnt. We need not recapitulate the particulars of the engagement, for the accounts which we spread before our readers will be found of exceeding interest and will fully repay pernsal. This is the only battle that Semmes has ever dared to fight with a naval versel, though he decoyed the gnaboat Ha'teras off the coast of Texas within range of his guns, and destroyed her by a broads'de For two years the Alabama has swept the seas and destroyed a large number of American vessels, stealing their chronometers with the same nonchalance that John Morgan ap propriates watches on the land.

With the destruction of the Alabama, the pirate crafts of the rebels are reduced to two, the Rappahaunoek and the Florida; and, from the altered tone of sentlment, we do not think they will be able to obtain any others from the dockyards of England or France. Tho Mesers. Laird, who were the rebelsgents in building the Alabama, would undoubtedly like to supply the rebels with more but Great Britain is now on the threshold of war herself, and if her own policy toward us is to be taken as a precedent for our conduct in the future, she will find that the system of unfriendly nearrality initiated by her may "return to plague the inventor."

The National Intelligencer publishes the following note from Senator Johnson, ef SENATE CHAMBER, Juno 30, 1864

To the Editors of the National Intelligencer: GENTLEMEN-My attention has been called to the following editorlal in your paper of which, in this instance, you have been led. Unless corrected your readers would suppose that the paper of Mr. Secretary Seward to which you refer was considered by the Senato Ochmittee on Foreign Relations as sustaining to say that upon the members who read the tice is will not be made know a at thu time, because of the pendency of criminal pro ecdings against some of the parties wh it shall be made known the public will be in formed whether the surrender is considere by the committee os either "sustained" o

With regard, your obedient servant, REVERDY JOHNSON. [The authority for the statement which he show corrected by the honorable Senstor from Maryian was the send-efficial correspondence of the N. Y Pribune.—Eds.

It is apparent, from tho tone and tenor o this note, that Mr. Seward's paper not only did not make the impression suggested by the Intelligencer's paragraph, but did make the very opposite impression. This, we think, is plain. We queetion not that the opinion of the committee, when it shall transpire, will be found pointedly to condemn the surrende of Arguelles, instead of justifying or sustaining it. We are confirmed in this judgment by the receat glams of the old American spirit in Coagress. However the case may be in the Excentive Department, there is still left in Coagress, wo are bound to own, some repect for the national traditions, and some symbathy with the national feeling. But even this f. int spark of nationality is rapidly going out in the choke-damp of Republican sway. Unless the people ventilate the great places of the government by a salutary change of administration in November, the spirit and the the ballot box whether the recent gleams of

The Republicans of New Hampshire lately held at the Capital a ratification meetiag, which is thus noticed by the New Hampshire Patriot:

THE RATIFICATION .- The Republicans of this State "ratified" the nominations of Lin-coln and Johnson, at Phenix Hall, on Treeday evening. And what a "ratification!" After great preparation and the announce-ment of a seere of "distinguished sp-akers," only some three or four hundred people as-sembled, and it was the very slimmest and nost stupid affair of the kind ever seen in man is forced to put it down as an utter 'fiz-

The fact is, the mass of the Republican party are disgusted and dicheartened with the Sheddy concern, and the prospect which the Sheddy concern, and the prospect which the people to know for ouco what kind of an Administration they are living under the President consults with the members of the President consults with the p sented for the tuture. The same evidence of the same feeling an pears in all parts of the country. Wherever a ratification meeting is held it proves a failure. The Republican account of the New Hampshire meeting suits the rest as well;

they are all "thinly nttended and by no means enthnelastic." They are without exception wietched abortions. The nomination of Lincoln and Johnson is not ratified even by their own party. Much less will it be ratified by the people at the ballot-box, with judicions action on the part of the conservatives. Courage conservatives! the salvation of your country is yet within your reach, if you are but true to yourselves: and, stimulated by so high and glorious an incentive, you cannot prove natrae.

The recent fire on Main street destroyed property valued at several millions of dollars, and not more than one quarter of it was covered by icentance. The contracts of indemnity against risks by fire or marine losses were of early origin, for they involved a natural principle of self-preservation. Snetonens conjecturee that the Emperor Clandius first Inticduced insurance in the year 43 A. D., but the practice of matine insurance is of much higher antiquity. Livy states that during the second Palic war the Roman contractors for sending ammunition and provisions to Spain stipulated that the Government should indemnify them against capture by the enemy or the dangers of the sea. It was not, however, generally adopted by our immediate ancestors until 1667, the year following the great London fire, and the experience of two centuries has confitmed its value. We never could understand wby people should with the loss of property by neglecting to underwrite it, when the accident of n day might involve disaster which could not be made up in an ordinary lifetime. It is a precantion which every man owes to himself, his family, and his creditors. The business which will not bear the expense of insurance is not worth following, and the consciousness of security which it produces is such that it amounts notually to foolhardiness to neglect it. We have many good in nrance offices in onr city and no man should do husiness a single day without seeking their protection, nulces his operations are so extended and he upon himselt and open an insurance account cwn book-.

THE VOICE OF THE LAGIES .- Juliet and Virginia, who sign themselves onr "true friends," write to us a charming note thanking ne for calling attent on to the useless habit of floodsprinkling. The ladice warmly indorse our article published a few days ago, and term the atominable practice of sprinkling a "perfect Sice." They argue, with much truth, a lady cannot chioy a promenade noon he streets, without her skirts being so drabbled by the sinsh of a single crossing that they are teady for the wash. If the authorities will not heed our warnings, we trust that the state that ladies viciting the post-office are frequently annoyed by having their exirts entch on the hooks on the top steps leading to the ladies' entrance. Several accidents have occurred, some of them partaking of a serious nature. We trust that this appeal will prove effectnal, and that both evils will be remelied nt once. Wonder if the promisod houquet will be forthcoming!

Foageny .- Doctor Sopper, a resident of Jeffersonville, who persists in effending the law and terfelting his sacred obligations, was egain arrested yesterday on the old charge of furnishing forged certificates of dis- W. The Doctor has been arrested for the same offence no less than three different times, and we think that rn in some penitentiary might have an inefforts to return these fugitlyes to instice, the Dector has been actively engaged in forging papers to shield them from arrest and panment. The swindle has been practised on otmous scale, and, without donbt, if the h was known, the Doctor has accumulated a handsome little forfunc by his onerations. We understand that he will be forwarded to Lexington, to he tried by the military commission.

few days ago the arrest of Wm. Ross and passes. Henry Miller at the Soldiers' Home, by Mejor smp, charged with baving in their possessions forged discharge papers, and stated that they had been placed in confinement at the Barracks prison. On Thursday night, Ross succeeded in making his escape. Ho toro his blankets into strips and twisted them into a rope, hy which he descended from the thirdstory window to the pavement helow. The feat was a perilous one, and such as only a desperate caracter would undertake. Ross is from the State of Wisconsia, and his record stamps him as a reckless character and a goundtel, learned in every shade of villany. Up to a late Four last night, he had not been restreated. His partner in crime, Henry Miller, was yesterday transferred to Lexington. Churges have been preferred against him, and he will be tried by the general court martial now in session in that city. It is to be hoped tlat the detectives may succeed in effecting the artest of Ross. Such precions scamps should be taught to ontertain a duo respect for tho majes y ot tho law.

DISERTERS UNDER ABREST .- Thomas Montgimery, a member of one of the Tennessee infantry regiments, was arrested in Washingon county, Indiana, a few days ngo, and eried to this eide of the Onio river yesharged with being a deserter. Gr itnsh, who deserted his regiment, the 22d Kentucky infantry, in November, 1862 was arrested in the city yesterday, and con ed in prison. He will be returned to his meni, under guard, charged wi'h deeer-Henry Lane, of company 1, 921 Illinois voluntuers, un old offender, was again arrested in the city tc-day. About three weeks ago ho was eent to the front, in irons. On artiving at his regiment, he took ndvantage of the first opportunity offered to desert the service. He should be more carefully guarded in the futuro.

BARBACKS NEWS .- Tho receipts at the Barracks yesterday were very light. Twenty convalencents reported as coming from different points, and six deserters arrived from Harrison county, Indiana. The transfers largely everbalanced the receipts. Three stregglers were forwarded to Cincinnati, five to Washington, one to Bowling Green, and tho 16th Kentucky cavalry were received to Nashville. Nino prisoners were transferred Nashville, one to Washington, and three deserters from the 5th U.S. artillery were sent to the front.
